Margene had many friends, but none more cherished than her Shallowford Falls “Buds”. These pictures were taken in 1991 during a weekend retreat at a cabin in the north Georgia mountains. Knowing that when the Buds got together they frequently talked about the school’s principal, Cheryl Hunt, I slipped a note in Margene’s suitcase before she left. In the image above, Margene is holding the note, which read, Ladies, this cabin is bugged and I am listening to everything you say. Cheryl
