

Great times at Granny's

When Justin and Jeff were young, Margene and I took them on frequent trips to visit my parents at their home in Dover, Delaware. Granny always had something special planned for her grandsons, from taking them to the Delaware State Fair in summer to decorating her house in holiday themes in winter. The pictures below of Justin and Jeff were taken on New Year's Eve, 1991. Pictured above on the left is Granny sitting in her living room beside a portrait she painted of her father. The picture to the right is the elegant dining room in which she served so many memorable dinners to her beloved grandsons and their parents.
