

Jeff was horsing around with Justin in the front yard when he broke both of the bones in his right wrist. It was a horrible sight, and I feared the clean breaks might be difficult, if not impossible to successfully repair. I rushed Jeff to the emergency room at Northside Hospital, where an orthopedic surgeon set the breaks and offered an excellent prognosis.